

Candidates area

Do you currently have a position and wish to reorient your career?

Are you looking for a new job?

In parallel to your personal and professional network, you can also call upon ConsultingRH to facilitate the contacting process with companies.

Specialized in the recruitment of executives and managers, ConsultingRH allows getting in touch with potential employers looking for new competencies.

If you are interested in our services, you can entrust us with your profile and your current professional objectives and we will make the necessary investigations to find professional opportunities matching your requirements.

Please feel free to contact us personally. We grant you a high quality service as well as complete confidentiality regarding your record.

CAREER AND COMPETENCIES ASSESSMENT Professional life is one of people's major concerns and this is the reason why we are standing close to each individual to make a success of it. We will bring support and objective advice for career transition, and undertake to act as Human Resources advisors in the search and exploration of new professional challenges.

We'll do everything to better know you and refine our common reflection and will check together if you are the new competency our customer seeks. In the same way, we analyze the interest of the company's offer in correlation with your expectations. In order to help you to position yourself on the job market, we propose the following services:

- Assessment and analysis of professional and personal competencies
- Support and advise for the design of a personal file
- Individual Coaching in correlation with the profile and the job market within a particular industry field
- Contact establishment thanks to an existing professional and relational network.